

The Moment

Paul N. Dion / Allen M. Dion

He finally broke like we knew he would.
He's nothing but a coward and a murderer too.
We've revealed him to be a devil.
May he now receive his due.

But it has drained me, made me pensive.
Perhaps defensive.
Is it not too little or too late?
I'm not worthy to be secretary of state.
I must resign.

No!
You will certainly not resign.
It is your time, no more waiting in a line.
Watch the door now open.
You must walk through it.
And I will follow you.

This is the moment we have waited for.
Now our path is clear.
Put away your fear.
You will be blessed by the grace of God above.
And my love will keep you, guide, and protect you.
Always be there for you.

This is the moment the world waited for.
Church bells ring out true.
Faith restores the truth.

We'll follow in St. Peter's steps,
And God's plan will guide our hand.
