

Tisserant's Retribution

Paul N. Dion / Allen M. Dion

Now the time comes to end your reign of power and control.
Your banishment, a well-deserved and fitting conclusion.

It took a long time, not to mention all my hard work,
For me to eradicate all the influence that you've managed to achieve.

There's no way you'll last another day.
I don't foresee this.
You've given me no amount of respect.
You are banished and will quickly vanish.
Never to again stalk these great halls.
You are now dismissed as you often dismissed me in the past.

Lapopessa was her name.
She tried to play a man's game.
Our history will not remember,
A reign of terror, all in error.
She's out of place, can't win this race.
I now expel her
From this man's church!